Moving to a new community involves more than a new job and a different house. Ultimately, you are building a new life. No matter what qualities would define your ideal life, when you live, learn and play in the Richmond, Virginia area, you will love what you find.

The Richmond Region is a unique and unexpected mix of cultural sophistication and legendary Southern charm. Easy, fun, accessible, and affordable, the region features some of the most distinctive and best-preserved historic neighborhoods in the U.S., as well as award-winning new communities. Professional arts, entertainment, sports, and natural attractions come together to form a cosmopolitan region rooted in a rich cultural heritage.

- Full of History: Museums, monuments, battlefields and historic homes reflect Greater Richmond's 400-year history. Patrick Henry said "Give me liberty or give me death..." at Richmond's St. John's Church. Thomas Jefferson designed the Virginia State Capitol, located in downtown Richmond. Pocahontas lived here, Edgar Allan Poe wrote here, and Arthur Ashe learned tennis here.
- Music + Concerts: Greater Richmond's music scene has a host of variation and our festival scene feeds into that, with the Richmond Folk Festival and Jazz Festival luring hundreds of thousands of music lovers to the area. Several summer concert series are popular mid-week celebrations bringing in performances by rock, country and reggae acts.
- A Foodie City: The Richmond Region's food scene is robust with more than 1,800 restaurants including five-star establishments and a bevy of food carts. The local foodie population has grown over the last decade, with an abundance of unique, non-chain restaurants sprouting up around the region. In addition, the region is home to nearly 10 wineries and 30 craft breweries, with Hardywood being named the best brewery in Virginia; the state's first urban cidery; and some of the best donuts in the country.

- Sports: From college sports to NASCAR, from hiking and biking to tubing on the James River ... there's something for everyone in Greater Richmond!

Local colleges, including Virginia Commonwealth University and the University of Richmond, boast strong basketball programs, regularly competing on national television.

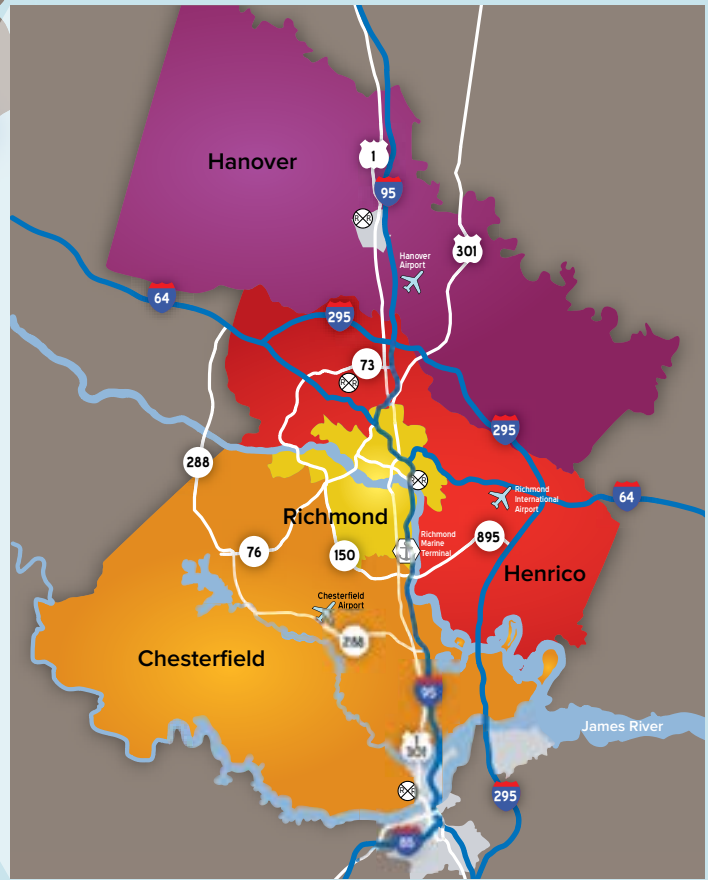

However, most Richmonders opt for participatory sports, such as running, cycling and kayaking. The Sportsbackers association hosts numerous events throughout the year for those who would rather participate than observe.

The Richmond Region features a strong park system with James River Park, which was named among 'Best River Parks in the U.S.,' offering 550 acres of shoreline and islands. Richmond offers the only Class I through IV urban white-water rafting and kayaking options in the nation. Pocahontas State Park boasts 7,700 acres of park and forest land. And if that's not enough, the area also offers an additional 100 local parks and 6,500 acres of designated park land.

EXCEPTIONAL EDUCATION

Virginia is home to some of the nation’s best school systems – both at the K-12 level and in higher education.

Award-winning Public Education

The Richmond Region offers an array of award-winning public schools to meet the education and training needs of your family.

Each locality in the Richmond area has its own public school system with more than 151,700 enrolled students. The systems provide a full range of career prep, college prep, and honors/advanced placement classes in addition to six vocational/technical centers that offer trade and industry classes and apprenticeship training.

Private + Parochial Options

Nearly 70 private and parochial elementary and secondary schools have enrollment of more than 13,000 students in the Richmond Region, with many private high schools serving as college preparatory schools. Special weekend and evening schools offering classes in language and culture have been created by the local German, Chinese and Japanese communities.

Hands-on History

The Richmond Region offers too many historical areas to name. Richmond was settled as early as the 1600s, and became the state capital by 1780. With such a long history behind it, the Richmond area retains many historic neighborhoods and buildings, offering a continuing character not found in just any American metro.

- The American Civil War Museum explores the American Civil War and its legacies from multiple perspectives: Union and Confederate, enslaved and free African Americans, soldiers and civilians.
- St. John’s Church, the site of Patrick Henry’s impassioned oratory “give me liberty or give me death,” is one of the oldest wooden churches in Virginia and remains an active congregation.
- Henricus Historical Park re-creates everyday 17th-century life in the second successful English settlement in North America and in the Virginia Indian site of Arrohatock.

FINANCING 101: A STEP-BY-STEP GUIDE

Choose Your Lender

You can select your own financing partner, or we can put you directly in contact with mortgage loan officers.

Select The Type Of Mortgage

Your mortgage loan officer will talk with you to learn about your individual situation and help you evaluate your options. You should consider getting pre-qualified for a set loan amount. A pre-qualification letter is an important tool that says to the seller you're serious about your intent to buy.

Apply For Your Loan

You should apply as soon as you have a ratified sales contract. An initial disclosure package, which includes a loan estimate, will be sent to you containing important information and documents for you to review, sign and return to proceed with the processing of your mortgage.

Loan Processing

Once your mortgage loan officer has your signed documents and application deposit to proceed, they will order an appraisal and preliminary title work for the property. Guiding you through this stage of the process will be your loan processor, who will work closely with your loan officer.

Underwriting + Loan Decision

The loan decision involves reviewing the property, your loan application information and documentation, the amount you are requesting and the specific loan program requirements based on your income, debts and assets. You will be notified of a conditional approval as soon as it is available. Once final approval is given, your loan will be prepared for closing.

Document Preparation + Loan Closing

Before your closing with a Virginia Statewide Title Services (VSTS) attorney, the lender's closing department will prepare and send you an initial closing disclosure for your review. This is a statement of loan terms and closing costs, which includes funds you will receive and those you may need to provide for closing. They will also prepare your loan documents and send them to the settlement attorney handling your closing.

CLOSING THE DEAL

Closing Steps

- Review and sign settlement papers. Your VSTS settlement attorney reviews the closing disclosures and other documents with you, answers any questions you may have and asks you to sign various documents.
- Pay Closing Costs. If everyone agrees that the papers are in order, you or the seller submits a cashier's check to the VSTS settlement attorney to cover closing costs and your down payment, if applicable.
- Wire funds. Some settlement attorneys request that funds be wired prior to the closing date. Be sure to ask in advance to verify the method of payment, to allow time for you to arrange a wire transfer if needed.
- Receive keys. You receive the keys to your new home. Congratulations!

Closing Documents

- Closing disclosure. This includes an itemized listing of the final fees and other costs charged in connection with your loan.
- Note. This is the document you sign to agree to repay your mortgage. The note provides you with the details of your loan, including the interest rate and length of time to repay the loan.
- Deed of trust. This secures the note and gives the lender a legal claim against your property if you default on the note's terms. The deed of trust restates the basic information contained in the note, as well as details your responsibilities as a borrower.

After the Closing

- After the settlement, your settlement attorney will record the deed of trust at the local government clerk's office. This is the legal transfer of the property and may take a day or two after closing to be completed.
- Official ownership. After the transaction has been recorded, the VSTS settlement attorney will wire the funds to those owed money from the sale. It is at this point you become the official owner of the home.
